WELCOME TO OUR NEW CATALOGUE

We are pleased to present our exciting new products. Take a look at our curved Sara Picture Book Browsers, our Maria Podiums in XL and our new EVA foam cushions, just to mention a few.

These new products, in their playful design, with thoughtful functionalities, bright colours and a robust construction, are made for yours, as well as the users', comfort (children and adults) and the environment.

With colleagues in 7 European countries under the Covid-19 pandemic we have learned to value physical meetings even though virtual meetings professionally ensured that we could run our daily business and be available to you when needed. The physical space of a library must also adjust and adapt to new situations. We have therefore introduced a range of products for information, social distancing and hygiene and we offer unique expertise in library layouts and interior design.

Contact us and follow our journey on www.wearelibrarypeople.com where you can keep up with our latest projects, trends, product news and tips.

ALL CHILDREN LOVE TURE

Ture the Turtle loves books and he so wants all his favourite books to be taken home by children who love to read. This is why you can now find Ture in the entrance of 33 kindergartens in the municipality of Älmhult in Sweden. The children and the parents borrow some of Ture's favourite books in the afternoon when going home, and bring them back in the morning, when they are finished reading them. Before Ture again looks after the books, the children will hopefully tell all the other children and staff all about the stories they read.

"Language steps"
With the support of the Cultural Council of Sweden, "Language Steps" is a collaboration between kindergartens, public libraries and agencies for communicative and linguistic development, the aim being to increase language support for parents with children aged 0-3 years old. Placing Ture in the kindergartens is just one of many initiatives to improve children's ability and desire to read.

Reading skills
The aim of "Language Steps" is to stimulate the language development of the younger children as early as possible, by encouraging parents to speak, read, ask questions and listen to their children. When a child's language is developed through reading books, a lifelong interest for reading has begun. "Language steps" contributes by giving each child the same starting point in life and through kindergarten and public library it offers them an endless amount of reading experiences.

Ture
Ture reminds both children and parents, that it is nice to spend time together and that books create a good opportunity to start a conversation. The parents gets the chance to relax and the children to use not only their imagination, creativity and concentration – but also to learn many new words.

THE FIRST ENCOUNTER...

The first encounter (or the first impression for that matter) can be crucial. Whether we’re talking about a fully-staffed, reduce-staffed, or unstaffed library, your visitors should not only feel welcome but also be able to get their bearings quickly.

Where can they get personal assistance or how can they help themselves? Questions that your visitors should be able to have answered when they step into the entrance zone.

Planning and designing entrance zones with the help of various interior design solutions may be the answer. Here, we present some options for taking good care of your visitors – right from the first encounter.

COCOON LOUNGE AS CENTRE OF ATTENTION

The City Library in Werne, Germany recently put focus on young people as a target group. The result was a chill area called RePlay (Read and Play).

"Since the youth area is directly related to the adult area we wanted to create a peaceful coexistence. We have divided the two areas with existing groups of DVDs, CDs and learning aids. In addition we have equipped the areas with flexible seating and 2 consoles. To separate them, we have made the Cocoon Lounge the center of RePlay. It is visually a real highlight for young and old.

In the Cocoon Lounge is an Xbox, which is very popular. Up to 4 young people can play at the same time. The closed character of the Cocoon Gaming Lounge takes away some of the noise, but since it is still open on two sides, one cannot expect absolute quiet. As a rule, however, if necessary with a nice admonition on our part, the noise level is limited and young people and adults get on well with each other.

All in all, the Cocoon Gaming Lounge for the City Library of Werne was a worthwhile purchase".

CREATING MAGIC IN THE LIBRARY

Invite the children into a magic forest with rabbits, frogs, wolves and owls or invite them to the savannah where the lion and lioness rule. When children visit the library it is an adventure where they can explore, join activities, take a break, read and meet other children.

Our book displays are as decorative as they are useful. Create focus and relevance for the user. We're talking about inspiring elements that spark curiosity and a desire to read. Sometimes it is the little unexpected surprises, which do the trick.

PLASTIC PROPERTIES & ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT

Polymetylmetakrylat, PMMA
Transparent, amorphous thermoplastic. Good optical properties, high hardness, good finish and outdoor weathering properties. Easily attacked by chlorinated hydrocarbons, alcohols, ketones, and strong acids, but tolerates oil and bases. Often called Plexiglas.

Environmental impact
Essentially insoluble in water. Low probability of bioaccumulation. No degradation in soil or water. Incineration and thermal degradation lead to release of toxic, irritating and combustible substances.

Small touches, huge difference!

“With some small touches here and there, you can give your shelving system a new look. Why not make use of the ‘cavities’ by putting a few display stands on the shelf? Naturally, we want the book to be the star, but even empty display stands can make the bookshelves stand out and become eye-catching. Display stands can also be used in other places, like on counters, podiums, and window sills.

There are many uses that go beyond just being decorative. They can be used to display an open book about nature, make brochures visible and easy to reach, or encourage visitors to help keep things tidy in study areas. Simple advice is good advice. It’s not about making changes. It’s more a matter of supplementing through small touches here and there.”

Tanja Fähndrich, Interior Designer

Acoustic

The current library trend with big open spaces, straight parallel walls and glass surfaces creates unpleasant sound reflections. In these cases, it is important to "help" these surfaces in the best way possible to create a pleasant acoustic environment, by reducing disruption in areas where concentration and quiet contemplation are needed, in which the customers can stay both creative and focused.

Plastic properties & environmental impact

LDPE, Bio-based

Bio-polyethylene is vegetable based polyethylene made of ethanol, which becomes ethylene after a dehydration process. It can be manufactured from various raw materials e.g. sugar cane.

Environmental impact

One of the most important environmental benefits of bio-polyethylene is made of renewable resources with no fossil origin used, and it "binds" approx. 2.15 tons of carbon dioxide per ton of green polyethylene produced. The carbon dioxide is absorbed by the sugar cane as it grows, minus carbon dioxide emitted by the production process. Plastic made from biomass is climate-friendly (CO2-neutral).

Polyvinyl Chloride, PVC

Colourless vinyl chloride polymer. The rigid plastic is usually mixed with free additives such as softeners, fillers and lubricants, as well as stabilizers.

In general, the plastic has good resistance to chemicals and heat

Environmental impact

Not classified as a hazardous to health and believed to be physiological inert.
